

Exodus 12:31-13:22

“What God Wants Us to Remember”

September 13, 2026 Pastor Kyle R. Fujii

What has God done for you? This may be a question you are asked by nonbelievers, but it is also a good question for Christians to ask ourselves. In this passage in Exodus, God calls the Israelites to remember. He tells them to celebrate the Passover as well as the Dedication of the firstborn. God wants us to remember the things He has done in our lives. Moreover, He wants us to pass on these things to our children and families. This Grandparents Day, let’s remember the good things God has done in our lives and consider how we can pass this along to the next generation.
